Episode begins in Al's apartment. Heidi, Tim and Al are taping a "Tool Time On Location" episode. The camera follows Heidi walking from the apartment door along the kitchen counter towards Tim

Heidi: Welcome to day two of a very special "Tool Time". We're coming to you live from Al's apartment. Now here's the star of the show, Tim "The Tool Man" Taylor. [The "Tool Time" music plays. The camera moves to show Tim, who seems to be growing a beard]

Tim: Thank you everybody, and welcome to our second day, as Heidi just said, in Al's apartment. It's lovely, isn't it? I AM Tim "The Tool Man" Taylor, and of course you all know my assistant Al Borland. [Tim and Heidi turn to the door in the back waiting for Al to show up] Al!

Al: [From the other room] Pardon?

Tim: We're on the air, Al.

Al: What?!

[The flushing of the toilet can be heard. The door opens and Al appears in the doorway, still holding a towel. Al realizes that he's being taped, quickly throws the towel back into the bathroom and goes over to Tim and Heidi and salutes]

Al: Well-- [Turns to Tim] You know you could have given me some warning.

Tim: Where would the fun be in that?

Al: Well, this week we've been showing you how to turn the dead space in your house into living space.

Al: The dead space between your ears could fill the mall of America.

[Al laughs at his own joke, Tim hisses at him. Heidi moves into shot]

Heidi: Today we'll be installing a sliding pocket door in Al's bathroom, but first let me show you what we did yesterday. [Heidi goes over to the kitchen] We used this space in the wall, [Heidi shows the spice rack in the wall] put in in a spice rack. Al?

Al: That's right, and then we converted this space that used to be [Al goes over to and points at the closet. Tim is holding two remote control units] my closet into a guest bedroom.

Tim: Remote controlled.

Al: Tim.

[Tim presses a button on the remote and the bed folds down]

Tim: Next, we'll try to convert some poor sap into Al's first houseguest.

Al: And then we'll convert that stuff on your face into an actual beard. [Al laughs to himself again]

Tim: Gee Al, not everyone can grow a beard as fast as your mom. Now, the pièce de résistance. In the spare room above the header in the kitchen we added a home entertainment system.

[Tim pushes a button on the other remote and a big TV set comes down from over the kitchen counter]

Al: With this setup, [Al takes the (wrong) remote control from Tim and lies down on the bed] my guests can now watch TV in bed. [Al points the remote at the TV and presses a button]

Tim: Not with that remote though, Al.

Al: Whoa!

[The bed closes, catapulting Al through the wall onto his neighbor's bed. Al's neighbor is laying on the bed, reading a book. Al lands right next to him. Al and his neighbour look at each other]
